KENT STATE NURSING STUDENTS OFFER HEALTH HINT

Each semester, the Kent State nursing students in Pam Rafferty-Semon's Community Health class volunteer at the pantry, performing blood pressure screenings and offering health information and handouts to all of our clients.

Abby Ford and Gianna Lellio, seen here, worked the table during a shift while the other eight nursing students helped shop with clients. Cathy Hitchings was just one of the clients who had her blood pressure checked.

MLK DAY OF SERVICE:
The pantry was a busy place on MLK Day thanks to the efforts of several Mount Union students who were joined by community members for the annual MLK Day of Service. The volunteers gave the pantry a deep cleaning and re-bagged pastry that was donated by Panera.

Among the participants were five members of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, Sam Nucerino, Aleksandr Duran, Joseph Higginbotham, Kerry Battershell and Walter Stering; Madison Brown, a Mount freshman from Lisbon; three from Boy Scout Troop 101, Corrie Bezon II, assistant scout master, scout Corrie Bezon, and Kasie Hartzell, who helps with the scouts; and Jeanne Ferguson, a neighbor of pantry board member Glenn Rupp. Jane Helwig and Mike Patterson directed the volunteers.
